

selection of proper members of the legislature next fall. If you are apathetic and remain away, the voters of Fulton county will be left to the mercy of the party which will be the victor in the election. There is no "majority" in the "minority" this time. This is a white man's fight—a contest between the manhood of Fulton county and the saloon power and its minions. Two-thirds of the voters of this county are white men. A most important victory is in your power, and if you retain the audacity, determination and dash of the past, you will rally to the courthouse Thursday evening, May 2nd, and make your voices heard and your vote felt in behalf of the honest democracy of Fulton.

If you secure the executive committee, you have in your hands the selection and election of county officers next fall, an event which will exercise a mighty influence on the result of the next prohibition election, eighteen months hence.

Prohibition is the cause of your God, of your home, and of good government in Fulton county. It is now in your own hands. You can be victors or vanquished. If from indifference, or any cause, you remain away, you are vanquished; if you come to the courthouse Thursday evening, May 2nd, you are victors. A great responsibility rests with you. Come, and bring your friends with you. Awake from your lethargy, and let the old enthusiasm lead you into action. Let us all unite to work and vote. Come with your friends. Come early. Come as the eye comes.

This circular was handed a Constitution reporter by a gentleman who said he had been elected to the county to the fact that powerful influences are at work to undermine its integrity. This circular was quietly but generally distributed only among men known to be fixed in the determination to make any sacrifice in order to carry their point, and the result was the whip worked most successfully, and the mass meeting held in the hands of men who voted for the chairman nominated by the "majority" and thus they got control of the county executive committee.

Continuing the gentleman said: "The executive committee has done its best to carry out the programme, but it has heard from the people in its effort to sacrifice party harmony to outside influences. It has done nothing whatever to do with the democratic party. As a party democrats had better watch to keep out Trojan horses from the organization of the party."

TONIGHT'S MEETING.

Indications of a Housing Meeting at the Artesian Well.

The city will be alive tonight. It looks now as if the streets around the Artesian well will not present space enough to accommodate the crowd which will assemble. There seemed to be a general desire in the city yesterday for a meeting, and when Acting Chairman Mitchell's call appeared in the evening papers yesterday the news spread in every direction, and almost everybody seemed to be pleased at the outlook. Following is Mr. Mitchell's call:

To the Democrats of Fulton county: The democratic executive committee of Fulton county having ordered a nomination for the state senate to be held on Friday next upon the mass meeting plan, and having postponed the nomination of members of the house, and great dissatisfaction having been expressed by many democrats, endangering the harmony of the party, as acting chairman of the democratic executive committee, I hereby call a mass meeting of the democracy of the county to be held tomorrow night in front of the Artesian well, at 8 o'clock, to ratify or change the action of the executive committee.

Vice Chairman F. C. Dem. Ex. Com. August 6, 1888.

CALLING THE PEOPLE TOGETHER. Late last night the following doghouse was turned from the hands of the Scott printing establishment and was on its rounds through the city, and by tonight will probably fall like knickerbockers over the city.

GRAND DEMOCRATIC RALLY. At Artesian Well, this Tuesday Evening, August 7th, 1888, at 8 o'clock.

Let every democrat in Fulton county who is in favor of a free ballot and fair expression of the choice of the county by a fairly conducted primary election, meet at the Artesian Well, at 8 o'clock, to ratify or change the action of the executive committee, and to elect delegates to the next meeting of the county executive committee.

WHAT MR. MITCHELL SAYS. "I called a mass meeting of the democracy tonight," said Acting Chairman L. S. Mitchell, of the executive committee, "because I think it is but right that the party should speak on the matter. The dissatisfaction in the city, and from what I hear, in the country, is such that I think democrats should be called together to counsel, in order to bring about a harmonious settlement of the trouble. I was unwilling that all these charges against the committee should go without action by the party, and I called the meeting that the party might act in the matter itself."

Continuing, Chairman Mitchell said: "I am perfectly willing to call the committee together if I get the request of enough of them to even insure the attendance of a quorum. If I am so requested at any hour I will at once call a meeting of the committee, and let it go over the matter again if it wants to."

Brother Lee's little call will receive the attention of the organized democracy tonight at the courthouse.

All cases of weak or lame back, lumbago, rheumatism, etc., will find relief by wearing one of Carter's Small, New and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Price 25 cents.

COBB CRIES OUT

Against the Action of the Fulton County Executive Committee. MARIETTA, Ga., August 6.—[Special.]—Great indignation is felt among the democrats of this county concerning the action of the Fulton democratic executive committee in fixing the mass meeting system as the method for choosing the senatorial nominees of Fulton county. Cobb county, which is the senatorial district, will support the favorite of Fulton county for the position, recognizing the fact that it is Fulton's time under the rotation system, but it will support no man who is not the fair and open choice of the people in the matter.

The matter has created a great deal of talk in Marietta today, and very few people, if any, believe that the nominee of the mass meeting system will carry this county. We expected a fair and open primary to be held in Fulton, and are ready to support the nominee of such an election.

Our people are very much divided as between the two candidates, but it is safe to say that the action of the Fulton county executive committee has put most of the democratic voters of the county to one way of thinking. Whoever carries this county must come to it as the fair and unquestionable choice of Fulton. Such a choice being made, the democrats of this county are willing to support it.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. These who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

THE CRITICS CRITICISED.

The Action of the County Executive Committee Reviewed. Errors Constructive. Many of your readers consider it matter of regret that the leading democratic paper published in the county of Fulton, not to say in the state or the south, should have condemned the action of the county democratic executive committee in the effort to seek a fair primary election for the choice of the county democracy for state senator, and that the condemnation of the action of the committee by THE CONSTITUTION should have been put in coarse and disrespectful language. It is respectfully submitted that the tone of THE CONSTITUTION's article on the subject is not conducive to party harmony.

Let us consider for a few moments the reasons for the action of the committee, what that action really provides for, and whether it is well adapted to the end in view, and see if the vituperations to which the committee has been subjected were timely and deserved. To begin with, THE CONSTITUTION following the lead of the minority of the executive committee, assumes that nothing but a primary election at which everybody can vote early, often and late will satisfy the democracy of Fulton county.

How long is it since Atlanta had a mayor and council nominated in a primary? Was Cooper, or Hillier, or Goodwin, or English, or Calhoun so nominated? When were the county officers nominated in a primary election? Who remembers how far back the last primary for that purpose was held?

Except the last delegation in the legislature from this county, when was there a primary election for representatives? When, except the election of two years ago, was the primary election for delegates to nominate a senator?

If this matter is considered, it will be discovered that for a long time of years the primary has been, not the rule, but the exception.

A Deep Disgrace. How long ago was this ticket framed and printed in the papers as a ticket? Did you want the races to come off together, so this ticket might run as a ticket? Has that little game been broken up? That was a strong ticket—some members of it to the papers and some very close to the M. A. B. society.

But the voters "have some rights," and you ought not to fix up the whole slate that way. These fixed up tickets don't always win you know.

THE BELL PENS (So Called).

Now, what are the meetings which THE CONSTITUTION publicly call bull pens? If a mass meeting at the courthouse is a bull pen, was not Judge Hillier nominated for mayor in a bull pen, and did not THE CONSTITUTION support him? Was not Mayor Cooper also nominated in a bull pen meeting, and did not THE CONSTITUTION support him?

By the way, that meeting was the largest political meeting to nominate candidates ever held in Atlanta and the courthouse alone harbored the people. When did mass meetings of the democrats of Fulton county get to be bull pen meetings?

There was a bull pen we have heard of down at the West Point depot in November, 1885, and we do not recall any protest on your part. The hardships on the people are greatly overestimated.

The Rooms are simply large.

There are only 2,512 registered white voters in all of south Atlanta. The contention—asking the three stories will hold every man of them, comfortably, and as no list of voters are kept the voters can vote as they pass out and will probably all vote in an hour and a half.

In the Bell street compress over 4,000 chairs were placed to seat the Moody congregation, and not near all the space occupied. The plan of voting there is the same speedy one to be used at the courthouse.

The interests of a citizen having to spend an hour within doors for the purpose of voting for his choice?

One objection to the system adopted by the committee is that it is undemocratic. Will the anxious-to-be-bolters state how it is undemocratic? Is there any principle of democracy prescribing a method of nominating candidates? In many of the principal counties of Georgia a primary is an unheard of method of ascertaining the wishes of the party.

The opponents of the committee's action admit, and no one will deny the fact, that a primary election affords an opportunity of repeating—and in fact the opponents acknowledge that repeating cannot be prevented. "But," they say, "it is as fair for one side as the other; both sides can repeat." The advocates of the committee's action reply: "We do not want equal chances to do wrong, but we offer you gentlemen a plan of nominating in which no wrong can be done; but a plan which is as fair for one side as the other, to do right."

This argument addresses itself to every fair-minded man in the county. Is there a democrat in the county who is in favor of a fair and honest count who cannot endorse the wisdom and necessity of the method adopted by the committee?

Do not the voters often lose more time at the regular elections or the old-fashioned primaries?

Resides, in "the bull pen," so called, there will be no voters to disturb or try to influence the voter.

Was it a Hammond Trick?

We answer emphatically no. It gives Hammond no advantage. It provides for a "full vote and a fair count." "Only this and nothing more." There is organization on both sides. There was fair notice of the meetings, and the friends of Mr. Tice had the same opportunity to get out their voters that Hammond's supporters enjoyed.

Of course this plan, especially as it fixed a different time for the election of senator from that yet to be provided for the nomination of representatives, may have prevented Mr. Rice and candidates for the house from cross-lifting for each other as effectually as if the elections had occurred at the same time and place.

Was that the plan depended upon?

If a man discharges a loaded gun into a crowd the supreme court of Georgia has held that malice will be presumed. What is the difference when a corporation innocent discharges a running engine into a crowd and mangles or kills a man. If the cases at law have met death at the crossing could the same principle be laid before our authorities in detail, and added to this a statement could be made that the narrow escapes that have happened, would appear that it is the greatest death in the country.

It was decided to refer the matter to a special committee composed of Messrs. Amorous and Woodward, and the city attorney.

Mr. Moran proposed that the city should adopt a plan for the railroad, in repairing it, to settle the dispute between the railroad and the city. The city shall

CHANGING THE SITE.

A Railroad Man Gives His Views on the Subject.

Where Should the Union Passenger Depot be Located—Two Meetings Today—Railroad Earnings.

"What do you think of the suggestions of the correspondent who writes this column in regard to a change in the depot facilities of Atlanta?"

"This was about the size of a question put to a railroad man by a reporter yesterday."

"What do I think of it? I think the man who wrote that communication has his plan down too fine not to have some prospective interest in the change he proposes."

"Admitting that he has, do you regard his plan as feasible?"

"In the first place, I will tell you that I am in favor of a new union depot for several reasons."

"What are your reasons?"

"In the first place, I regard the present arrangement as it is very impracticable and one of the most inconveniently arranged depots in the whole country. In the second place, it is too small for the travel that goes through it, and last but not least, it is dangerous to all its approaches."

"What would you suggest?"

"There are only two things to suggest in my opinion—a new depot, and one so situated that the tracks would run into it where the streets could be guarded, and accidents made next to impossible."

"Where would you locate the new depot?"

"That is a great question, when all the various interests are taken into consideration. But the best site for a union depot, in my opinion, would be on the corner of Fourth and Adams streets, on either side. The building in which the United States Army holds its meetings is a first class location, and every approach to it could be well guarded."

"Would the selection of this location as a site for a depot require any great changes in the trackage of the various roads?"

"Very little, if any. All the roads running into the depot could get just as good facilities on either side of the Fourth and Adams streets, and it would be very convenient to the business center of the city."

"What is the argument in favor of this location, from the safety standpoint?"

"As it is now arranged, the Western and Atlantic, Central, Georgia, and Atlanta and West Point trains are all obliged to cross two of our busiest streets into the present depot. On the other side, the Georgia, and Richmond and Danville trains run across the street, and the busy street, now, if a union depot is built on Fourth street, the roads I named first will not cross a single business street."

"The Georgia, and Richmond and Danville trains would cross Whitehall street, and your plan adopted."

"Yes, but their trains could be shut out from the street by the use of gates at the crossings. I know there is an objection to the use of these gates, but they would only be down for a few moments during the passage of each train, and this would really amount to nothing when the safety of the plan is considered."

"Your plan would change the present plan of switching, would it not?"

"Yes, to a certain extent. But the exchange of cars, which is the only part of the switching that involves the street, would be done in the same way, and the plan would be changed in no other respect."

"When you think a change is not only possible but probable?"

"As to the possibility, I am pretty certain, but the probability is something I don't know so much about. But let me tell you this. The business men of Atlanta and the railroad managers should discuss this subject and make up their minds. I have no opinion that a change for the better will be made. I think they will, and that this is the best plan for a new union depot, and the travel that goes through this city will justify its being built at once."

Two Meetings Today.

The rate committee of the Southern Railway and Seaboard association meets at 3 o'clock p. m., and the stockholders of the Atlanta and West Point are to hold their annual session. There are several matters of importance before the rate committee, and the stockholders will discuss the same.

The Grant House's New Carpets and Furniture Being Placed.

It was stated a few days ago that the Grant house had been re-furnished by Mrs. Archer for five years and that it was being overhauled from top to bottom. The work for the past week has been in part suspended, but will be pushed rapidly along and in a few days it will be, as a lady visitor remarked yesterday, "as pretty as a picture."

"Why," said she, "the carpets are elegant. The one in the ladies' parlor is equal to anything I have seen in Atlanta, and the ones being put in the halls look like they are fine enough for the most elegant parlor."

"Yes, that is a fact," said a friend, and in addition to having such an elegantly furnished hotel, the Grant gives the choicest fare. It is real first class in every particular. Then it is so conveniently situated that the business men can run up to it and get the best dinner in Atlanta for the money. Try the Grant this week."
